

Self-Reflection

Self-Reflection

Even though a lover of reading, my focus on reading material has been sidelined due to busy schedules as I believe that book reading must be done in peace. However, I do tend to focus on shows and movies more and prefer action and sci-fi material. However, I am open to any media element that draws me in and establishes a connection with what I like. I always try to find stories that capture a journey from start till the end through the eyes of the character.

The last human interest movie that I watched was Ford v Ferrari. It showed the resilience of individuals who fight against odds to fulfill their dreams. It impacted me in a positive way and helped me to draw attention towards my goals. It also helped me to understand my own self and how I can make an impact in this world. One man can indeed make a difference and that is what I now believe in,

The term “cultural diversity” means the intermingling of cultures and people of different backgrounds within the same environment. I have lived in areas where there are diverse people who interact and connect with each other. The main thing I believe is tolerance, flexibility, and the ability to mold oneself to properly accommodate each and every one.

The main hope I have is to be able to understand the intricacies of the topics that are covered within the course so that I am able to fully comprehend the situations that I might come across and maybe be in a position to formulate a response that is effective under the scenario.

There are no specifics that I want to convey to the professor apart from showing my enthusiasm to be able to work with him in this course and to have a great learning experience.
